Mark Jelly Glasses

Drop a letter of "alphabet macaroni" on the top of the paraffin to mark your jelly glasses. Do this just before the paraffin sets.

Snakes Voiceless

Practically all snakes are voiceless. They hiss when angry by forcing air from the lungs through their constricted throats.

Ancient Dyes

As early as 25,000 B. C. man knew a good deal about transferring color to the walls of his cave. Ancient Egypt's sarcophagi of the year 7,000 B. C. show exquisite colors, and a garment dyed with indigo, dating from about 3,500 B. C., has been found in Thebes. Thenceforth each of the dominant civilizations of antiquity developed further the use of fabric dyes derived from vegetable and mineral sources.

Tough Plastic

A new plastic is currently being used by some manufacturers to form a protective covering and prevent scratches, marks or corrosion on such materials as steel, aluminum and magnesium. It is a cold-pour material which can be applied like lacquer by spraying, brushing or dipping. It dries at room temperature in approximately 20 minutes, leaving a film that is extremely tough and durable. Metals covered with the substance can be bent into numerous shapes without disturbing the film; yet the film can be easily peeled off with the fingernails, the same way cellophane can be peeled from a package of cigarettes. The film is normally transparent; however, it can be dyed to produce any color. Its rugged, non-porous composition enables it to prevent scratches, marks and corrosion; and if necessary, it can be cured with heat so that it cannot be peeled from the base material.

Huge Grant

It was not until "gentlemen adventurers" of the Hudson's Bay company obtained their charter in 1670 that fur trading became a thriving business. Having discovered one source of riches, the company little knew what tremendous power their charter gave them—"the whole trade of all those seas, straits and bays, lakes, rivers, creeks and sounds together with all the lands, countries and territories upon the coasts and confines of the aforesaid." Charles II of England had no way of knowing how vast was this uncharted territory—30 rivers, all the northwest territories, most of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Ontario and Alberta—almost a third of Canada.
